Excalibur

The Sword

Many, many years ago in Medieval England there lived a bold and wise ruler known as King Arthur and, as time passed, many legends grew round him. Among them is the legend of his wondrous sword, the Excalibur. Its magic made him king and enabled him to walk fearlessly through countless perils. The Excalibur thus represented to King Arthur the ideals of cooperation, brotherhood, sportsmanship, and hope that ruled his life. These qualities may be transplanted from the Medieval Ages to the present, and from King Arthur and his Knights to today's teenagers, students of CPHS. In every phase of school life whether studies, sports, or social events, CPHS students are aware that they live with, for, and according to very similar ideals. In spare moments between classes, at hasty locker conversation, and in hushed classrooms each individual's face calls to mind that since the middle ages "when Knighthood was in flower" the importance of cooperation, brotherhood, sportsmanship, and hope in the future, have not diminished; indeed, the qualities which the ancient Excalibur stood for are timeless!

STUDENTS GRIP KNOWLEDGE THROUGH LECTURE

Study means many things to many people. At CPHS efforts applied toward advancement in knowledge can be seen in various classrooms where both students and teachers acquire general and specific knowledge. A department of learning can be applied to sciences, math, languages, social studies, vocational training, and physical education. CPHS has made great strides in the direction of making subjects more specific, interesting, and challenging to learn. Because the subjects offered are so varied, the student at CPHS now can have a general idea of what he might do in life. "Study hard, learn a lot, and keep active," is the motto of every CPHS student.

SCHOLASTIC HONORS

As the year unfolded earnest students strove hard to achieve high scholastic ratings and to display good citizenship. The rewards came hard and were welcomed with pride and honor by those who received them. A student did not forget the happiness of seeing his name on the Honor Roll, of receiving an invitation to the Kiwanis Banquet, of being named to Girls' or Boys' state, or of being chosen DAR Good Citizen. But most satisfaction came from simply knowing one was doing his very best.

PRIDE, ENTHUSIASM, LOYALTY GO HAND IN

WINDING THROUGH TOWN, the snake dance leaves runners exhausted and eager for victory at the following night's Homecoming game.

"Crown Point Bulldogs, they are great!" New cheers, happy smiling faces, and sportsmanship are the backbone of every high school — school spirit. It is not just the cheering of students for their team, but also devotion to school, true interest in extracurricular activities and co-operation in the classroom. Extracurricular activities unite the student body, making school life more interesting. The annual bonfire and snake dance, held before homecoming, are just two of the ways school spirit is boosted. It is also reflected with every pep session, every game, every completed assignment. Sportsmanship among spectators and participants is practiced by the students of Crown Point High School.

"CHEER, CHEER FOR DEAR CROWN POINT HIGH" echoes throughout the gym as the booster block proudly leaps to its feet.

FRIENDS DISPLAY CO-OPERATION THROUGHOUT

THE TWICE-DAILY LUNCH LINE FORMS in a semblance of order after hungry students rush madly to be first.

AFTER HEATED COMPETITION in interclass tourneys, Jack Pettit and Ann Christophersen receive most valuable player trophies from Mr. Keller.

Throughout the years at Crown Point High School, from orientation to graduation, students learn that competition, co-operation, and the need for the friendship of others are a necessary part of their high school life.

The cafeteria and rec room are the popular meeting places during lunch hours. Here students eat, talk, and get away from the classroom routine. Mingling at lockers between classes and before and after school is another common practice.

Students exchange ideas through academics and share common interests through clubs, organizations and sports activities.

Individual personalities are enriched through contact with others. Common goals are reached through the co-operation of the individuals working in groups.

Each year unique fads and fashions are introduced by CPHS students and this year was no exception.

Girls led the fashion parade of "the latest" with wrap-around skirts, knee socks, mohair sweaters and loafers. Small bows and head bands in a wide array of colors adorned a variety of sleek, casual-looking hair styles. The newest in the young man's world included zippered sweaters, collarless jackets, ski parkas and three-quarter length coats.

Steady shirts remained popular throughout the year. Girls decorated their steadies' rings with angora, colored tape or fastened on sweaters with initial pins. Senior cords, class rings, and sweaters remained a tradition as in previous years.

RED ROSES, A FOOTBALL UNIFORM, and two crowned heads signify '63's Homecoming royalty D. Nemes and D. Smith.

The Homecoming of 1963 was two nights of cheering madness; the first night was spent around a huge burning pyre of wood and chanting "Go, Bulldogs, go!", then streaking through town in a long snake dance. Enthusiasm rose to a peak the following night at the Homecoming Parade of Marching Bulldogs and class cars, and at the game against the Portage Indians which unfortunately they won in a strenuous battle for the ball.

REVIEWING "VICTORY" DECORATIONS at Homecoming dance are D. Stonex, M. Kauffman, E. Mueller, and S. Stonecipher.

WITH THEIR ENTHUSIASM AND FESTIVITIES

HANDING OUT PROM PROGRAMS to June Taylor and Keith McCloud are underclassmen Pat Fraikin and Maryellen Burke.

With the arrival of spring comes one of the most anticipated and important social events of the school year, the Junior-Senior Prom. Through the year committees staffed by hard working juniors carefully planned and carried out the business of decorations, publicity, and tickets, and created a Prom the seniors would long remember. Its theme was "A Parisian Holiday" with Taft Junior High cafeteria transformed into a French night club and the Eiffel Tower hovering in the background. About 130 couples mingled and danced to the music of the Michael Golden Orchestra, crowned their king and queen, and topped the evening by feasting at a banquet in Teibel's.

LEADING OFF THE FIRST DANCE as '63 Prom Queen and King are Dee James and Tom Kaiser.

AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES AND SMILES finish the evening as Sue Moffit crowns Sue Jacoby Rose Dance Queen.

A BEAUTIFUL SMILE radiates from junior Ruth Ann Mazure as she wins the title of Hi-Y Sweetheart for 1964.

NEW RANKS OF ROYALTY RECEIVE TITLES OF

In '63-'64 many new royal titles were recorded in the annals of CPHS. The Holly Hop, Rose Dance, and Prom all provided a chance for the creation of kings and queens. The PTA-sponsored Holly Hop, held during the Christmas holidays, contributed the Holly Hop Queen chosen from a group of four candidates. The spring festivities were ushered in by the Queen of the Rose Dance sponsored by the Sunshine Society. This year the Rose Dance was in the form of a turn-about during which the couples attending the dance elected the queen. Topping off a bright year of major and minor blue-blooms was the choosing of the Prom King and Queen at the Junior-Senior Prom in May.

FRENCH EXCHANGE STUDENT IS AMERICANIZED

MARC CHENETIER from France enjoys himself dancing with Janice Ingram and vigorously munching an apple in the rec room.

GLAD TO BE HERE, French exchange student Marc Chenetier shows his AFS shirt to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins and son, Craig.

For the fourth consecutive year, CPHS has been host to a foreign exchange student. This exchange program, sponsored by the American Field Service, provides a school year for some foreign student. This year CPHS welcomed Marc Chenetier from Blois, France.

Marc made his home away from home with the Richard Collins family. He participated in various clubs at CPHS and spoke at numerous class and club meetings. The exchange program adds ideas from the foreign countries and helps promote better understanding with American youth and faraway places.

ONE GRADUATION CLIMAXES FOUR YEARS

SCANNING college information on scholarships is senior Audrey Jasas in the guidance office.

NOT TOO SAD, 1963 graduates await the final moments of the evening when they will receive their diplomas.

This year at CPHS as in the past, there were activities planned to give students the opportunity of discussing their futures. For the college bound there was College Night on March 5 at which representatives from many state universities came to the school to answer questions and assist in decision-making.

Most students looked forward to Career Day, not only because it meant a day of no classes, but also because it provided a chance to get an inside view of future occupations. This year it was on April 8.

With four Career Days and two College Nights behind them, the seniors neared and finally realized the end of high school days on Commencement Day May 29 — a day of many mixed emotions.

STEPPING INTO THE FUTURE, Arlyn Czimer happily proceeds down the stairs with her newly acquired "sheepskin."

ACADEMICS

The Sword...Hope

It is true that the Excalibur made Arthur King. As a young member of the Royal Court, he first encountered it stuck fast in a rock by the roadway. Being on a mission to obtain a sword for a fellow courtier who had forgotten to take one to a jousting game, he immediately hoped for the nearly impossible—to draw the sword from the stone. Unknown to him was the fact that whoever could do so was the true king, there being turmoil in the land concerning this matter. Arthur with great effort released the sword and thus became king. The Excalibur became to him a source of hope and confidence.

In the study of academics hope is an essential. Students of CPHS find that knowledge gained in the classrooms of science, math, language, and history widen the vistas of future opportunity and success. Thus, to CPHS students the Excalibur is hope, hope increasing with each added bit of knowledge.

PHYSICAL SCIENCES INTRODUCE STUDENTS TO

DISECTING TINY CREATURES in biology class is a new and challenging experience for most sophomore girls.

EXPERIMENTING CAN BE FUN
as well as educational and Rick

THE WORLD OF NATURE

READING DIRECTIONS in the chemistry workbook, Jeff Hershman tells Rick Lindau what to do next in a lab experiment.

A strong background in the field of science was available at CPHS in '63-'64. A course in health and safety during the freshman year provided the foundation, and in the sophomore year knowledge was increased through either biology or general science. For those wishing to delve into the subject deeper, an advanced biology course was offered in summer school. Chemistry, the science that deals with the composition of matter, was available to both juniors, and seniors. The background was completed with senior physics, in which the laws of matter and energy were converged and applied.

VIEWING ALGAE through microscope and observing its characteristics is one way of spending time in biology class.

HISTORY, ECONOMICS BAFFLE STUDENTS WITH

DISCUSSING "super ego" in psychology class, an interesting topic for "junior" psychologists.

By keeping up on current events and learning those of the ancient past students of social studies acquired a wider outlook on today's world situations. U.S. history kept them busy with its collateral work, while world history divulged secrets of the prehistoric age. 1964 was the second year in which senior "E"-class economics students took a freshman college course. Civics also intrigued seniors with assignments such as creating a constitution for an underdeveloped country. Upperclassmen taking psychology compared principles of different religions and toured the Westville mental institution. Other social studies courses offered at CPHS were sociology and geography in which students explored the nature of people and places.

EXAMINING CIVIL WAR GUNS are Carol Phillips and Pauline Doty. Dick Murray explains the different parts of the guns.

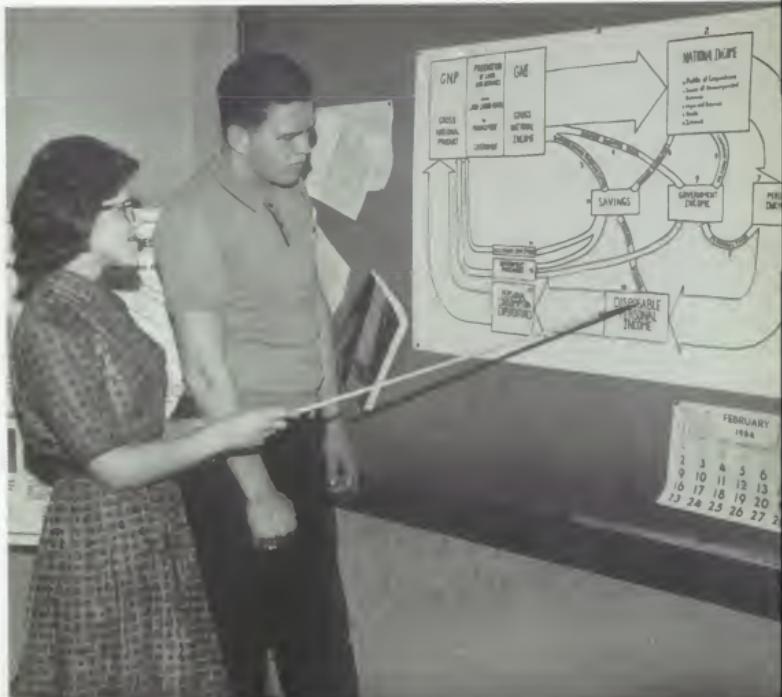

DISCUSSING CURRENT EVENTS in Mr. Kimble's civics class usually means getting "groupy" with your "Newsweek."

THEORIES, CHARTS

AGAINST A BACKDROP OF MAPS. Mr. Gruber, social studies teacher, lectures on the geography of South America.

VIEWING SENIOR MATH PROJECTS. Cathy Hack discusses the composition of a model with Mr. Saylor.

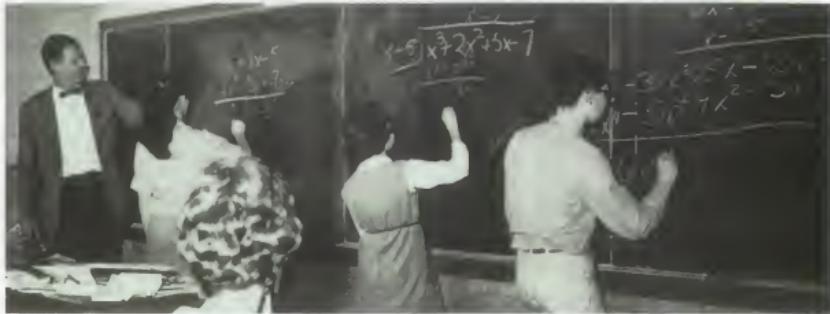

The language of the sciences, though not the most popular, was the most varied. Throughout the four years of high school mathematics was offered in several phases, each progressively more difficult, to students taking academic and business courses. Introductory algebra and plane geometry formed the bases for advanced algebra and senior math. Senior math in turn taught the fundamentals of analytic and solid geometry, trigonometry, calculus, and statistics. Students of commercial courses took mathematics in the form of business math.

ENCOURAGE LOGICAL, IMAGINATIVE THOUGHT

Using creativity and originality, the budding artists of CPHS found many means of expression. These included water and oil painting, charcoal sketching, wood-block cutting, and basketweaving. The daring attempted to achieve artistic effects with collages and experimented with different methods of working with clay. The art classes also made posters for Poppy Day and competed with several schools in a fashion illustration contest.

CAREFUL WORK must be done to create a good slip-mold as this student is doing in art class.

TAKING HIS TIME, art student Randy Harris stands casually at his table and draws abstract images.

VOCALISTS AND MUSICIANS HONORED WITH

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS are proudly displayed by band and choir members after state contests.

Band and A Cappella are two subjects offered at Crown Point High School which are slightly off the academic track. These courses give the students the opportunity to develop their musical talent and express themselves in the music field.

Girls' Glee Club and the Mixed Choir are designed to give vocalists the background need before entering the more advanced A Cappella group.

The band department consists of the Symphonic, Concert, Dixieland, and Dance Bands.

After classes the music wing is almost always filled with "the sound of music." Students have the chance to use practice rooms to prepare for concerts, contests, ensembles, improve techniques or just to provide their own entertainment.

The music program offers learning and enjoyment for the "musically inclined".

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR THE FUTURE IN HOME

PLANNING THEIR FUTURE HOME, Ruby Leach and Candy Harris label furniture types in their home economics scrapbook.

INVENTING THEIR OWN CREATION, Linda McPheeters and Sandy Wagner cook up a storm.

Modern facilities found in the home ec department helped girls gain experience in the duties of domestic housekeeping. Freshman home ec introduced cooking and sewing to students, while second year included child care, advanced foods, and home nursing. Advanced clothing, tailoring, and family relations were taught to juniors and seniors.

While the girls were advancing their knowledge in the kitchens, other students were learning new things in driver training cars. Those at least fifteen years old were eligible. Both in classrooms and cars they learned the safe practices and responsibilities of driving on highways and city streets.

SHOP COURSES PROVIDE USEFUL EDUCATION

INTRICATE WELDING jobs are part of everyday lessons in the machine shop of the Industrial Arts Building.

Every teacher at Crown Point High School is teaching some kind of industrial education from math to English with the exception of the foreign language department.

The industrial arts are the manufacturing and the construction arts. The industrial education department consists of guilds for separate crafts, including—graphics, machine shop, wood shop, automotives, electronics, welding, and sheet metal works.

The department may also be called the vocational department of the school because it offers the students in this department the opportunity to prepare themselves to better serve the school, community, and state. Industrial art students learn trades and skills which will enable them to become productive citizens.

CPHS offers various courses for those interested in business as a future vocation. These include general business, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business math and advertising.

General business is available to freshmen who want to learn about business. Those who follow this course throughout high school usually take two years of typing to develop skill and accuracy. Shorthand is also available for two years. Business math acquaints the students with mathematical problems while advertising introduces customer approach.

This year a new course was made available for commercial students—business machines.

IN SENIOR CLASSROOM

The English language is essential to every citizen of the United States since it is the native tongue of our country. This is the reason for the great stress of this subject in schools. All CPHS students are required to take three years of English and four are necessary for the college-bound. Each year of English consists of one semester of grammar and composition and one semester of literature.

Students learn to express themselves and to develop their own style through creative writing. A knowledge of vocabulary and the correct usage of words is also very important. All these things are taught in grammar and composition.

Literature introduces students to the history of our language and to the great men of years gone by and today.

VOICE OF YOUTH WINNERS Jim Crowell, Cindy Fiegle, and Lea Ann Newton discuss their winning compositions.

GIVING A MIGHTY SWEEP, senior Mike Myers, official unfurler of the "Big Hand" flag, expresses class's appreciation of a well-done job.

French, Spanish, and Latin unlocked the doors to adventure, to romance, and to culture in faraway places. Latin helps students increase their understanding of the English language as well as that of the Roman Empire. French and Spanish help students increase their fluency in the modern languages.

The use of recording equipment in the classrooms gave the students the opportunity to record and listen to their own voices and to help them correct pronunciation errors.

The language department saw several changes this year. The new addition to Crown Point High School serves as the language wing, and the addition of fourth year French and Spanish classes provide more variety.

GYM CLASSES, INTRAMURAL SPORTS UNITE

In accordance with the heavy stress now placed on physical fitness at the state and national levels, CPHS physical education course was compulsory for two of the four high school years. The course provided facilities for a comprehensive physical exercise program. In phys-ed the student learned proper posture, body mechanics, and the rules and techniques of competitive sports. A new tennis court, completed last year was in use in the fall and spring. Track sports were practiced on the football field while other phys-ed outdoor activities were performed on the old football field. Indoor sports were played in the spacious gym along with tumbling and gymnastics which employed apparatus as the horse, parallel bars, rings, mats, and the trampoline. Social and folk dancing were semester courses and a part of the physical education program at CPHS.

ACTIVITIES

The Sword . . . Co-operation

In those days of medieval castles many wars rocked the green countryside. King Arthur with the Excalibur by his side led his Knights in charges on countless battlefields where co-operation was most important. The sword, though its power made King Arthur almost invincible, encouraged the Knights to fight together, and also to work together. It possessed the power to make individuals operate as one.

The individuals of CPHS also learn to work together in the activities of extracurricular organizations. With a wide range of interests represented in 25 clubs, many students participate in several. Members work on money-making projects, sponsor weekly dances, and take field trips to areas of interest. Whether the club is concerned with drama, science, music, or community service, the Excalibur still wields its power and the spirit of co-operation reigns.

STUDENT COUNCIL ENCOURAGES MORE

Diddie, B. Beasley, M. Banser.

Serving as a sounding board between the student body and administration, the Student Council is one of the more important organizations in the school. It performs other functions, among them, sponsoring Freshmen Orientation Day, decorating the halls at Christmas, providing two scholarships for graduates attending two-year or vocational colleges, and sponsoring the Leadership Conference at which Frank Lynch, head of the Lake County Crime Commission, was guest speaker this year. It also sponsors a student's trip abroad during the summer if one of CPHS's candidates is chosen by the AFS.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS were seniors Lynne Stonex, Jim Crowell, LeaAnn Newlon, and Bill Fifield.

STUDENTS' INTEREST IN SCHOOL DEVELOPMENTS

MAKING CHANGE ACCURATELY takes time and practice, but Laurie Duncan learns quickly in the concession stand.

This year Student Council members installed a turn-table at the Community Building to improve Friday night dances, purchased Freshmen cheerleader outfits, and marked the 30-day period of mourning for the late President Kennedy with black ribbons on the flags of each classroom.

A branch of the Student Council, the Safe Driving Committee, checked students' cars for minimum qualifications to insure their safeness, and issued student driving permits. This committee's membership is not restricted to Student Council members, but considers every applicant.

AS CHRISTMAS TIME NEARS, Student Council members gather to trim the trees and decorate hallways with holly.

The purpose of Crown Point's Chapter of National Honor Society is to encourage underclassmen to work hard in their studies. Each year the faculty selects qualified juniors and seniors on a basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. National Honor Society raised funds for Channel 11, an educational TV station and gave a Christmas party for members and CPHS graduates. Students who made the honor roll continuously were also feted with a Christmas party at which Marc Chenetier, foreign exchange student, showed slides and Santa Claus read letters from guests.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY officers were D. Conquest, R. Vieweg, E. Mueller, L. Newlon, L. Lehner, S. Kreston.

CLUB, NHS PROMOTE GOOD SPEECH AND STUDY

As an active member of the Indiana Forensic League, the Speech and Debate Club of CPHS participated in many speech meets including those at Butler and Purdue Universities. Two members succeeded in winning at the Sectional meet and competed at the Regionals. In order to rouse more interest in forensics the club organized a speech meet in December that was open to all CPHS students. Then in April it sponsored the annual Student Legislative Assembly in which junior and senior social studies students formed a mock Congressional session, presenting individually written bills. The club's officers were President Don Lottes, V. President Den Diddie, Secretary Judy Bare, and Treasurer Jim Pounds.

ARGUING FOR A BILL at the Annual Student Legislature is Theresa Bednar.

The Modern Language Club was established for students who took French or Spanish or both and wanted to further their knowledge of the language they studied. At meetings on the first and third Mondays of each month members explored the culture and heritage of France and Spain. Guest speakers and movies also comprised the programs of many meetings as did the planning of the Modern Language Club Dance and of the club's annual cultural trip to Chicago. The club's main activity of the year was a banquet held at Teibel's April 9. Members kept up on current events in France and Spain by reading magazines the club subscribed to, and improved accents and enunciations with the aid of tape recorders.

EXTEND KNOWLEDGE

Being composed of all second and third year Latin students, the Latin Club of CPHS was an active member of the Junior Classical League, one of the few state and national organizations for high school clubs. The main interest of the Latin Club, the study of Roman history, culture, and customs, was put into effect at the annually presented Latin Club Banquet in early spring. At this heralded event, first year Latin students served as slaves; second and third year students and seniors, the honored guests, came as equites, senatores, and plebes in colorful and authentic costumes. The club also took its yearly field trip planned by the consuls of each class. In accordance with its interests, the Latin Club officers were known as consults, praetors, and aediles.

Members of the FTA learned about the requirements, duties, and rewards of the profession, and helped teachers by grading papers. The club also awarded a scholarship to the outstanding senior member.

Health Careers was organized for students interested in any health career. Members presented projects and demonstrations at the bi-monthly meetings. Its officers were President Chelly Wood, V. President Cheryl Wild, Secretary Carrie Filipovich, and Treasurer Diane Wolfangle.

The Biology Club, established to foster more interest in biology, welcomed all interested students. It went on field trips and performed experiments concerning the "science of life" at weekly meetings. Its officers were President Margaret Porter, V. The ambition of the Sunshine Society is to help others by giving service and kindness to all. SSS members bring "sunshine" into the lives of those they come in contact with for they show warmth and a new source of enduring energy.

The Sunshine Society is open to all high school girls. Sunshine initiation was the event opening the society's year. On Bundle the SSS and Hi-Y joined forces in a door-to-door collection of clothes for the needy. The annual candy sale raised money for the Riley Hospital Fund. Thanksgiving brought canned goods from members' homes for families in the community. The Sunshine Society and Hi-Y united to present the annual Christmas formal. The Rose dance is also sponsored by the Sunshine. The May breakfast was the climax to the society's year. All Sunshiners and women teachers attended this event.

Improvement of school and community standards was the goal of the Hi-Y. In conjunction with the Sunshine Society girls several activities were undertaken to fulfill this goal among them the annual Bundle Day, a clothing drive, and a Christmas semi-formal. Parking automobiles at school functions was also a task of the Hi-Y boys. This year members collected funds for the March of Dimes by exchanging a small roll of candy mints for a donation. The Friday night dance sponsored by this club was highlighted by the crowning of the Hi-Y Sweetheart and presenting her with a dozen roses.

To be qualified as a member of Hi-Y a boy must be in his sophomore year and be able to pass a test on its constitution and pledge. Directing this year's activities were President Dick Denney, Vice-President Rich Jackson, Secretary Mike Banser, Treasurer Rick Vieweg, Sergeant-at-arms Mike Sergent, and Chaplain Bob Lamphier.

The Future Homemakers spent a busy year making and selling wreaths and Christmas trees of net, presenting the Teachers' Tea at Christmas, and sponsoring the Style Show in May.

Members of the Future Farmers studied basic and new farming methods and participated in several judging contests that tested their knowledge of farming skills.

The Audio-Visual Technicians helped teachers and students find information in books, magazines, tape recordings, and movies.

DEDICATED CLUBS REFLECT MASS INTEREST

IMPROVISING A GIVEN SCENE individual Drama Club members create quickly with imaginations.

"Mine come to a grand total of 500!" might have been heard at a Drama Club meeting. This refers to the point system, reinstated into the club, which records the activities of each member by an allotment of points. Many club members earned points during the year by taking the trips to see "The Beautiful People" and "The Skin of Our Teeth" at the Gary I.U. Extension, presenting programs at meetings, and helping to clean the backstage in the Community Building. The Drama Club also operated a booth at the GAA Carnival and presented a three act play "Oh, Promise Me" in January. The club's officers were President Steve Golden, Secretary Kathy Burrel, and Treasurer Ken Niemeyer.

The Art Club began the year with a sale campaign of Booster Plates which in turn "boosted" its treasury. Aside from discussing current events in the field of art, experimenting with different mediums, and sponsoring the Art Club Dance, members made excursions and worked on projects. They painted the school windows as decoration for the Christmas season, and in January went to see "Camelot" in the Chicago Opera House and toured the Art Institute. As an Easter expression of good will the Art Club formed a collection of used books and paperbacks and presented it to the Lake County Detention Home. The officers serving the Art Club were President Jane Boerner, Secretary Roberta Everett, and Treasurer Mike Banser.

The biggest event of the Booster Club was homecoming with all the festivities—the snake dance, bon fire, football game, crowning of Mr. Football and Homecoming Queen, and the following "Victory" Dance.

Basketball season came next with the cheering section out for competition in their red and white capes. The booster block proved doubly victorious by winning the "best block" trophy at the Lake County Christmas Tourney and the Sportsmanship trophy at the East Chicago Sectional.

The essential quality for a good cheer block is having full co-operation, organization, and sportsmanship from all the fans, coaches, and players.

The main purpose of the club is to boost all the athletic teams from Crown Point High School.

PLAYING "CAT AND DOG" with a basketball is an after-school activity which GAA members may participate in.

The purpose of the Girls' Athletic Association was to foster interest in physical fitness for girls. Sponsored by the physical education department, it welcomed any girl who enjoyed sports. GAA members participated in four major sports, volleyball, basketball, soccer, and baseball. They also gained technical skill at tumbling, bowling, tennis, and other minor sports. The GAA united with Lettermen's Club for their annual semi-formal in February. In spring the club had its Carnival with booths featuring a variety of acts by other school organizations. For any GAA member who preferred either physical education or physical therapy as a career, GAA sponsored a scholarship program. A letter sweater was awarded to a senior girl, selected as the club's best all-around athlete.

HALLS RESOUND WITH VOICES OF A CAPPELLA

The A Cappella of '63-'64 began its season of learning and entertaining with the A Cappella Prevue November 1 presented for parents and families of members. The season continued with the Christmas Concert staged in conjunction with the CPHS bands. The A Cappella also sang for the student body at several religious convocations.

Of twenty entrants at the Regional Solo and Ensemble Contest at Indiana University February 8 ten A Cappella vocalists merited superior ratings and seven earned excellent ratings. Also in February, members of the entire choral department took a field trip to Chicago to see "Camelot."

The operetta of 1963 was the musical

"Masquerade in Vienna" presented in the school gymnasium allowing the colorful ballroom scene a full, dramatic sweep. March 6 of '64 the CPHS A Cappella welcomed students from county-wide schools to present the annual Choral Festival and the final program of the year was the Spring Concert in May.

With the money earned from the choir's bake sale and sale of season tickets, the department completed its payments on the Baldwin piano acquired last year and purchased a used tape recorder for use in improving vocalizing. Choir members also have other equipment at their disposal in learning music appreciation.

"O.K. Let's go!" was the familiar cry heard as the Marching Bulldogs hit the field for an exhibition of high-stepping precision marching and instrument playing. The schedule of marching events included appearances at the LaGrange Pet Parade, the parade of Champions at Chicago's Riverview, the Michigan City Parade, Lowell's Labor Day Parade, and County Fair. The high light of the marching season was State Fair at which the Marching Bulldogs took sixth place honors.

The Symphonic Band, composed of the same musicians as the Marching Bulldogs, displayed its musical talents at the Christmas Concert, Pop Concert, and Guest Artist Concert. The Solo-Ensemble Contest made it possible for members to earn recognition for their musical efforts. The Concert Band, open to all interested, served as a training unit for the Symphonic Band.

SHOCKED Cecily Cardew (Jan Ingram) learns that she and Gwendolyn Fairfax (Lynne Stonex) are engaged to the same man.

The Senior Class Play presented by the class of '64' was the "Importance of Being Ernest" by English playwright, Oscar Wilde. This comedy involved the complications that arose when Jack Worthing (Jim Pounds) pretended to have a scamp of a younger brother named Ernest so that he could himself go off to London and enjoy himself as the high living Ernest. Unfortunately he fell in love and wanted to marry Gwendoline (Lynne Stonex), who refused to marry any but a man named Ernest and detested the name Jack. In spite of further complications the situation concluded happily for all involved.

The play was produced in the arena style which seated the audience on all three sides of the stage so more viewers could be intimate with the action on the stage.

TRILOGY OF PLAYS

SENIOR PLAY CAST—Lynne Stonex, Sue Vedo, Joe Rush, Jim Pounds, George Pyle, Tom Cheknis, Martin Luke, Mary Brindley, Jan Ingram. Center—Mr. Kellum, director.

Unlike most years, the class of '64 as juniors presented a trilogy of short one-act plays. The three productions were: "The Staring Match", an analogy of a conflict between good and bad represented by Mr. White (Jim Pounds) and Mr. Black (Marty Ellsworth); "Undertow", the story of a jealous matron (Mary Brindley) and her plan to murder her pretty, young step-sister (Kay Loftus); "The Lottery", a drama of a town's tradition of drawing lots to choose a human sacrifice. Under the direction of Marion Kellum, the plays were presented in three-quarter round. This staging confined the actors to a small area with the audience sitting on three sides enabling them better vision and hearing.

INKLINGS, EXCALIBUR RECORD MEMORIES FOR

INKLINGS EDITORS were G. West, B. Taylor, B. Hanford, D. Pittman, S. Golden, L. Lain, S. Stonecipher.

Dashing off front-page stories, laboriously counting out sparkly headlines, and constantly prowling for catchy "sniffs"—these were the favorite pastimes of the Inklings staff of '63-'64. Under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Sharon Stonecipher and Assistant Editor Steve Golden the paper went to press weekly on Thursdays following a hasty Wednesday night of planning dummy pages and copyreading assignments. For the staff's hard work the Inklings merited a second class rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. Also serving as editors were Business Manager Linda Wirtz, Sports Editor Larry Lain, and Ad Editor Jim Harrison.

Complementing the school newspaper was the yearbook, the Excalibur. With deadlines constantly looming up the staff of the 1964 edition was kept in a steady stream of work interrupted by brief rests. The beginning of this year's book occurred at the Publications Banquet in May of '63 at which the next year's staffs of both newspaper and yearbook were announced. Then during the summer Editor Audrey Jasas and Assistant Editor LaVeda Longfellow planned and laid out the 1964 Excalibur at the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. From there they brought back the fundamentals that enabled the entire staff to compile a yearbook with a possible rating of All-American by National Scholastic Press Association. It earned this honor in nine previous years.

SPORTS

The Sword...Sportsmanship

The Excalibur downed many Knights in friendly rivalry when King Arthur participated in jousting tournaments. It was at these tournaments that sportsmanship was born and admired as a good quality. It was part of the famed chivalry toward not only the fair damsels, but toward all fellow men. Among the Knights of the Round Table fair play was the rule, not the exception.

Thus it was at CPHS. Throughout a season of top-rate basketball, climaxed by the winning of the Sportsmanship and Best Cheering Block Trophy at the Sectionals, fair play and victory were the keynotes. Football finished its season with an even 5-5 record; wrestling was highlighted by a second at the State Wrestling Meet; gymnastics completed a successful season as did golf with a 23-10 record. Though there was no magical Excalibur to guarantee a victory, there was still its age-old reminder that good sportsmanship helps to achieve it.

GRIDDERS FINISH WITH 5-5 SEASON, THIRD

The Crown Point football team, under new head coach David Schaeffer, compiled a 5-5 record for the 1963 season. Boasting 13 returning lettermen, the Bulldogs started the season in good style by winning their first four games.

The Pirates from Merrillville stormed into Memorial Field with determination only to be soundly defeated 12-0. The Red Devils of Lowell proved to be our next victims as they were burned on their own gridiron 19-6.

Two more victories followed as the Bulldogs whipped Calumet 19-12, and Dyer 13-6.

But disaster came to the Bulldogs in the form of the Griffith Panthers, who clawed their way past them 46-7.

The Bulldogs did not give up, though, as they went on to beat Highland 7-6 in a hard fought battle. From then on things happened just the opposite of the season's start as the Bulldogs lost their last four games to Portage 19-6, Hobart 21-13, Lew Wallace 12-0, and Chesterton 18-12.

At the close of the season seniors Dave Smith and Dale Lytle were chosen co-captains while "most valuable player" honors went to senior Rich Jackson.

RESERVE GRIDDERS' SEASON DISAPPOINTING;

BULLDOG RESERVES anxiously watch the Calumet-Crown Point game from the sideline.

The year 1963 will be one that many of the Crown Point Bulldog reserves will try to forget. Ending the season, our boys looked at a 1-7 won-loss record.

Nothing seemed to go right for the reserves as they started the season out with a loss to Merrillville 14-6. Things brightened as they took the only victory of the season from arch rival, Lowell, 19-0. From then on it was a down hill slide all the way.

Putting up a fairly good fight they lost to Calumet 12-7 followed by two shut-out losses 6-0 to Dyer, and 13-0 to Griffith. The next two games really proved disastrous as Hobart rolled over the reserves 26-6 and Valparaiso mauled them 33-6. The last game they put up more of a fight, but to no avail as Lew Wallace won the season closer 12-6.

The freshman football team this year brought victory to the gridiron twice in three battles compared to last year's 3 losses and 1 tie.

Things started rolling fairly rough, though, as East Chicago Washington beat them 14-7. But, with fire in their eyes the freshmen bounced back to give Dyer a sound 34-0 thrashing. Their winning ways continued as they managed to end the season squeezing past Gary Andrean 7-6.

HUSTLIN' CAGERS COMPILE 20 - 4 RECORD

GRAPPLING FOR THE REBOUND. senior forward Mike Myers stretches his arms and overpowers a Merrillville Pirate.

The year many people had been waiting for in basketball at Crown Point finally came as the Bulldog cagers of 63-64 turned in the finest season ever recorded at Crown Point.

The Bulldogs first met North Judson who had hopes of knocking off our cagers in the first game, but the Bulldogs with other ideas won in a close game 53-50. The Horsemen of Gary Mann were next but wished they had stayed home as the Bulldogs beat them 63-53. The next four scheduled games were all the Bulldogs', and for the third straight year the Christmas Holiday Tourney.

"Go! Go! Ten in a row" was now heard all over Crown Point, but the Warriors of Calumet beat the Bulldogs 66-58. Undaunted, the Bulldogs recovered slowly the following night by beating Rensselaer 73-67. Eight more victories in a row followed as East Gary, Dyer, Merrillville, Wirt, Highland, Hobart, Valpo, and Edison fell.

With a first place tie in the conference looming ahead, the Bulldogs were stunned by Griffith as the Panthers rocked the Bulldogs 79-66. Hammond Noll also turned the tables on Crown Point as the Warriors beat the Bulldogs 89-83.

With sectionals rolling around, the Bulldogs enjoyed a favorable position as being one of the teams to win at East Chicago. The Whiting Oilers were upset minded, though, as they played a slow-down game. Finally, size and experience showed through as the Oilers went down 65-53. East Chicago Roosevelt was next. The hard hitting Rough Riders went down at the hands of the Bulldogs 66-60. In a close final game of the sectionals with East Chicago Washington, the Senators won on a last second shot 64-62, thus ending a terrific season of basketball at Crown Point High School.

RESERVE, FRESHMEN BASKETBALLERS KEEP

RESERVE BASKETBALL TEAM—BOTTOM ROW: A. Picard, M. Stillson, G. Britt, D. Allison, T. Schuman,

D. Carnahan. ROW TWO: Coach Marcinek, L. Fleming, T. Liss, J. Schmelter, J. Schafer, J. Purcell, D. Conquest.

The reserve basketballers, not to be outdone by their big brothers, completed a very successful season by posting 13 wins and 7 losses.

The reserve started off the season in good fashion by winning their first six games. Those to fall to the reserves were North Judson 46-41, Horace Mann 43-33, Portage 51-40, Gavit 57-53, Chesterton 62-49 and Lowell 48-40. But on the same night the varsity suffered their first defeat, so did the reserves with Calumet upending them 60-45.

The following night the reserves managed to get by Rensselaer 45-43, but East Gary and Dyer were able to get past the Bulldogs 55-52, and 37-36.

Three victories followed the two defeats, as Merrillville and Wirt went down 49-46, and 49-30. Highland also fell to the reserves 37-29. The last four games of the season proved fairly rewarding as the Bulldogs won two out of four.

OUT TO WIN, John Schafer struggles for possession of the ball in a fast-moving game against the Merrillville reserves.

PACE WITH VARSITY SQUAD

Not to be outdone by its two brother teams the freshman basketball team ended its season with a glorious 12-2 record.

The Bullpups stormed through their first three games dropping Lincoln 41-36, Lowell 47-38, and Andrean 54-36. But, like their elders, the Bullpups lost to Calumet 39-34. Not able to recover from the defeat the Bullpups lost their next game to Merrillville 47-43.

The next nine games were the Bullpups' as they beat Valparaiso 51-35, Griffith 61-42, Portage 44-35, Andrean, again, 70-35, Lowell, again, 38-36, Rensselaer 48-43, Dyer 50-33, Gary Edison 64-36, and Gary Wirt 48-41.

The Crown Point matmen finished the '63-'64 season with a 7-7 record, which was not up to par for the usually strong Bulldog team.

The Bulldogs, posting wins over Merrillville, Highland, Dyer, East Chicago Washington, Lowell, Hammond Noll, Portage and taking fifth in the Calumet Conference meet, dropped meets with Hammond Tech, Griffith, Gary Edison, East Chicago Roosevelt, Valparaiso, Hammond Clark, and Hammond High.

Crown Point, which for the last ten years has had a representative at the state finals, did it again in the form of senior Mike Bansen who copped second place in the 138 pound division. Freshman Marvin Dillner also turned in a fine effort as he won fourth at the regionals.

The Bulldog reserve grapplers started the season on two sad notes, by losing to Andrean 30-23, and Chesterton 41-11. But the Bulldogs bounded back to post four straight victories as they defeated Gary Wirt 35-25, Gary Roosevelt 28-26, Gary Edison 26-14, and Griffith 26-12. East Gary then broke the winning streak by belting the Bulldogs 27-18. But the Bulldogs, bound and determined to have a good season, came back with a resounding win over Gavit 30-16, but had to settle for a tie with River Forest 24-24. In the season closer, the reserves beat the Panthers of Gary Roosevelt 26-21.

Although only participating in one meet, another reserve team from Crown Point defeated one of Andrean's, by a score of 28-20.

INDICATING THE WINNER, referee Chris Traicoff raises Dale Lytle's hand as a symbol of victory.

A strong Bullpup wrestling team was evident as they ended their season with a 5-1 record.

The season started as the freshmen outwrestled Gary Andrean 36-16. The next meet, with Chesterton, was the Bullpups' as they beat the Trojans 36-16.

A hopeful Bullpup team out for their third victory lost to Highland 21-15. The freshmen recovered, however, to win their next three games.

First to fall to Crown Point was Griffith 21-14, followed by River Forest 34-20, and Gary Andrean, again, 30-22.

DEFYING HIS OPPONENT'S HOLD, Ed Zurbirgen tightens his grip on a Noll Warrior.

For the second straight year an underdog walked away with the honors in the boys' division of the annual Interclass Tourney. The well drilled freshman A team upended the favored seniors, who were also last year's champs. The freshmen were led by Jack Pettit who scored 23 of 33 points scored and Bob Bieker with 5.

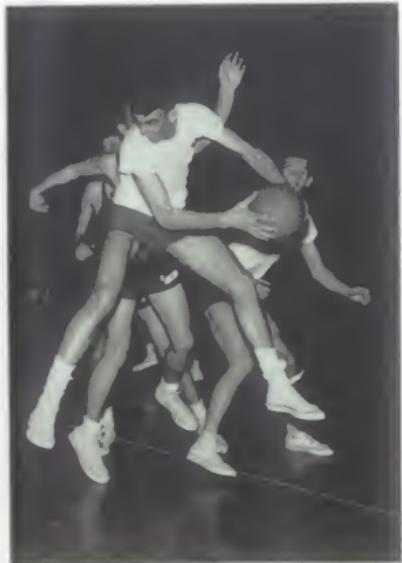

In the girls' division the Bandettes won their second consecutive championship by drubbing the '66 Scoobies 58-4. Freshman, Ann Christophersen, sparked the Bandettes with 21 points followed by Penny Patz with 12 and Diana Buche with 11. Jack Pettit and Ann Christophersen were named most valuable players.

In the nightcap the ageless faculty nipped the All-Stars 56-49. Russ Marciniek led the scoring with 18 points followed by John Ericks with 14.

INTRAMURALS CREATE COMPETITIVE SPIRIT;

RACING DOWN THE FLOOR, an intramural basketball team of seniors prove their superiority over the sophomores.

Unlike many schools in the area, Crown Point boasts of having a fine intramural program for both boys and girls throughout the school year.

From freshmen on up to seniors, the students participate in touch football, girls' soccer, boys' soccer, girls' field hockey, table tennis, checkers, chess, tennis, volleyball, basketball, and wrestling.

The unbeatable Watusies I and Watusies II again dominated the boys' volleyball in the fall, and the Mighty Seniors along with Keller's Killers were the girls' champions.

In the mixed volleyball division, the Beavers and the Gentles reigned as winners.

The basketball scene saw the Faculty edge out the Pi-O-Mys for the Boys' championship, and the Beatables I over the Beatables II for the girls' honors. Tom Banser and Bill Hanlon tied for first place in the free-throw competition with 21 out of 25 free throws each. Don Litts became the winner of the tennis singles with Dale McFarland being runner-up.

BECOMING FAMILIAR with an American pastime, Marc Chenetier, AFS student, competes in a table tennis match.

RESERVES' FIRST SEASON ENDS WINLESS

Again the Crown Point gymnastics team rated as one of Indiana's best. Junior Terry Cox, who led the team in individual scoring all year, again took first place in state on the horizontal bars, captured first in all-around competition, and tied with junior Steve Golden for first on the side horse. Also taking a first at state was another junior, John Lurtz, who is now state champion on the rings. Our gymnasts ended with a third in state.

The 63-64 season could have been better as the Bulldogs ended with a 8-7 record. Crown Point beat Oak Lawn 81-51, Warren Central 62½-49½, New Carlisle 62½-27½, Morgan Park 72½-32½, Clarksville 66-46, Rich Central 67-26, and Oak Lawn again 94-53.

This was the first year Crown Point had a reserve team. The reserves didn't do too well, though, as they dropped all their meets to East Leyden, Morgan Park, Oak Lawn, and Wheaton.

DIVISION TITLE, 7-2 RECORD

"One of the best" was the way one could describe the CPHS track team in 1963. Coach Ruby had a good reason to be proud as our track team showed some of the greatest potential ever seen around Crown Point.

The scores proved this point as the thinclads rolled up a 7-2 dual meet record, and placed second in the Crown Point Indoor Meet, in the Rensselaer Relays, in the Little Five Meet, and in the Hobart relays. In the Hammond Invitational the cindermen placed seventh.

The conference title was the one Crown Point wanted and our boys started in fine fashion by winning the southern division of the conference, but in the final meet of the two divisions they tied for second being beaten by Chesterton. The sectionals were next, but Crown Point just didn't have it as the thinclads placed fifth.

During the season three school records were set and one conference. Named co-captains for '63 were J. Lindley and L. Linsley.

IN A FAST START cindermen lose identity in a mass of arms and legs.

HARRIER PACING ENDS WITH FAIR RECORD;

The Crown Point harriers, paced by Doug Conquest, again posted a respectable record for Crown Point in 1963. Losing three of the top ten runners of the 1962 season, Crown Point relied again on underclassmen to carry much of the load. The underclassmen succeeded in bringing about many of the victories.

Facing Hobart on the first meet of the season, the harriers were downed 30-25. (The lower score winning.) But, in the next meet, a quadrangular, they posted victories over Dyer 15-45, Chesterton 21-36, but ran up against too strong an opponent as Calumet beat them 15-45. The next two triangular meets went to Crown Point as Griffith and Portage fell 20-39, and 21-35, and Highland and Lowell both went down 25-36, and 24-

35. Traveling to Valparaiso, our harriers were downed 15-45. Things were reversed as the harriers beat East Chicago Washington 15-45.

A dual meet followed with Crown Point reigning victor over Merrillville 23-37, and East Gary 15-45. Traveling to Laporte, the harriers were beaten 19-36, and at Michigan City 20-35.

Next came the Hobart Invitational in which Crown Point finished fifth in a field of 26 teams. Two other conference foes followed with Crown Point besting Gary Edison 16-43, and Gary Wirt 18-45.

In the Calumet Conference meet the harriers placed fourth, in the Delphi Invitational third, the sectionals fourth, and ending out the season, the regionals twelfth.

LINKSMEN SWING WAY THROUGH SEASON

The 1963 golf team was an unexpected, but welcome surprise. With no returning lettermen, the inexperienced golf team still managed to muster a respectable 23-10 record while tying for second in the Calumet Conference with an 8-2 record.

Junior Brice Pavlish copped medalist honors 6 times to lead the linksmen in that department. Major letter award winners were: senior Tom Piper, juniors Larry McFarland, Brice Pavlish, Terry Pettit, and sophomore Jeff Hershman. All of the award winners shot 40 or better at least once during the season.

After a slow start, the linksmen won 8 of their last 10 matches, and lost only to Merrillville and Dyer in conference play.

The linksmen also defeated Hammond Clark, Gary Andrean, Hammond Morton, and other teams from the north end of the county. Brice Pavlish and Jeff Hershman led the Bulldogs to seventeenth in the Dyer Invitational, and fourteenth in the sectionals.

Beating some of the favorites and losing to some of the lower ranked teams was the story of the 1963 baseball team.

The hardballers started the conference season off on a sad note by losing to Portage 5-3, but struck back to win the next 4 games downing Lowell 6-2, Merrillville 5-4, Highland 9-4, and Griffith 1-0. Wirt stopped the streak by beating the Bulldogs 1-0. Edison was the next conference opponent, and gave the Bulldogs a 6-1 beating. East Gary and Dyer were the next Bulldog victims as they went down 15-13, and 7-1. Calumet then turned the tables on Crown Point as the Bulldogs lost 5-1. But Crown Point showed they could come back by beating Chesterton 5-3.

The Bulldogs finished the season over .500 with a 10-8 record, and placed third in the conference. The Bulldogs also placed two players, Bob Lamphier and Tom Witten, on the All-Conference team.

SEASON FAVORITES; RESERVES MEET TROUBLE

Playing nine games last year, the Bulldog reserves took more than their share of bumps during the season. One reason for the hard year was too many errors in the games.

During the first part of the season, the reserves' spirit was downed quite a bit by losing their first five games. These included beatings by Washington 6-4, Portage 13-11, Washington again 7-5, Highland 9-8, and Horace Mann 10-4. But the reserves then bounded back to take their first victory from Merrillville 7-2. Victory was short-lived, however, as the Dyer Indians scalped the Bulldogs 13-3.

Fighting back, the reserves ended the season in a better fashion by beating Lowell 13-0, and besting Merrillville 7-2 for the second time during the season.

TOM WITTEN WAITS FOR THE PITCH, hoping for a hit.

PERSONALITIES

The Sword . . . Brotherhood

So that there would be no favored position among them, King Arthur, inspired by the Excalibur, created the Round Table. And the Knights who sat around it enjoyed complete equality which was the basis for their brotherhood. They each pledged loyalty, honesty, and justice in all things they did and were reminded of these by the gleaming sword at King Arthur's side.

The student body of CPHS forms a vast brotherhood in which school spirit is actually the spirit of brotherhood. The freshmen were the initiates who stormed the school 388 strong; making way for next year's crop, the seniors of '64 graduated with both glad jubilation and sadness. Inbetweeness was the note of the sophomores and juniors though eventually all 768 will pass from the brotherhood of the CPHS student body.

CPHS'S PRINCIPAL, Ray Rogers, completed his second year as head of school in '63-'64.

The team of Ray Rogers, principal, and Roger Childress, assistant principal, completed its second year of heading CPHS. "CROWNING YEAR" ENDS SENIORS' CPHS DAYS

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS—Sandy Krestan, Mickey Sergeant, Roger Irvin, and Bette Nelson discuss plans for their final year.

The four-year history of the senior class began in the fall of 1960 when the usual freshmen class entered feeling shy and strange. But the common goal of learning and growing drew the individuals together; it strengthened and molded them into one class. During the next year, class leaders emerged, and those who inevitably earned straight-A's, those who weren't so fortunate so frequently. As juniors, the class of '64 presented a trilogy of one-act plays united by an element of the strange: "The Lottery", "The Staring Match", and "Undertow". The crowning year, senior year, brought an outburst of class spirit and protestation when senior hall was transplanted from main hall to the old freshmen hall. But these matters were forgotten on graduation day when clad in blue, the freshmen of '60 became "alumni" of CPHS.

UNDERCLASSMEN RISE A NOTCH AS '64 ENDS

Sophomores no longer hesitated as in their previous year; the second year of high school, though it did not bring superiority, did bring a new assurance. The class earned itself money for a growing treasury at the Sophomore dance in April and by dues. Selection of class rings caused much debate and excitement as happens every year. Faced with a choice of three styles, the class representatives chose the selection Number 2. The class of '66 though only half way through high school already looked forward to their final year and day.

For members of the Class of '65, the end of 1964 marked the beginning of something big—senior year. But, it also closed the door to many memories as underclassmen. As juniors they planned, organized, and presented the Prom in honor of the graduating class; they memorized lines and cues and constructed scenery for the class play "Bull in a China Shop"; they sold pop and candy at the concession stand during the football season; they happily showed off class sweaters of colonial blue. The goal they have been working for ever since Freshmen days (graduation) is rapidly approaching.

Coming from two feeder schools, the freshmen class entering CPHS in 1964 was the largest ever, comprised of 388 students. For the first few weeks the school routine was strange and multi-winged buildings were a maze, but the freshmen quickly learned all the possible routes and short cuts from class to class. Besides being introduced to a class schedule, they also learned school government by voting for class officers and for Student Council representatives and officers.

COOKS, CUSTODIANS PROVE INDISPENSABLE

PREPARING MEALS for students everyday in the school cafeteria, CPHS cooks and dietitians take a brief respite.

BUSINESS

The Sword . . . Enterprise

Even in the time of the Knights of the Round Table and chivalry, enterprise played an important role in everyday life. In the small villages that dotted the countryside, cobblers, leathersmiths, and blacksmiths offered their services in exchange for a gold piece. The serfs and the peasants were aided by these services and the services profited from the peasants.

Though the commercial world of the 20th century differs greatly from that of the Middle Ages, both employed the characteristic of enterprise. The merchants of Crown Point have grown, multiplied, and progressed from a tiny settlement to a rapidly expanding community of over 300 businesses. Today's modern business world had its early beginning in the long ago villages of Medieval England where enterprising peasants first bartered for gold and silver.
